

PRESENTED BY
PROCORE

Melvina Stacey

Director of Health and Safety, Flatiron Dragados

Melvina Stacey is a results-driven Health and Safety professional with 20 years of experience across Infrastructure, Transportation, Heavy Civil, Oil & Gas, Energy & Chemicals, Mining & Metals, Nuclear, and LNG sectors. As Director of Health and Safety for Flatiron Dragados USA West, Melvina oversees projects throughout California, leading with a people-first approach that focuses on building engaged, accountable teams and fostering a culture where safety is a shared responsibility.

Melvina's passion for safety stems from a deep desire to protect lives and create workplaces where every worker feels valued and heard. That commitment became deeply personal at the age of 21, when Melvina lost a close friend in a workplace accident—an experience that shaped her lifelong dedication to safety leadership. Since then, Melvina has approached every project with a mindset of accountability, care, and continuous improvement, ensuring that safety is embedded in every decision, process, and interaction.

Over the course of her career, she has contributed to some of North America's most complex infrastructure projects, including the Los Angeles International Airport Automated People Mover, the Gordie Howe International Bridge, and LNG Canada. What fulfills Melvina most is seeing teams embrace safety as a shared value, not just a compliance requirement, and knowing that her work helps people go home safely every day.

Originally from Marystown, Newfoundland, a small coastal community on Canada's East Coast, Melvina draws on lessons from competitive soccer—teamwork, leadership, perseverance, and discipline—which continue to shape her leadership style today. Melvina holds a Certified Health and Safety Technician (CHST) designation, a Gold Seal Certification (GSC), and a Certificate in Occupational Health and Safety from the University of New Brunswick. Passionate about mentoring the next generation of Safety leaders, Melvina's mission is simple: to ensure everyone goes home safely each day while fostering a culture of integrity, inclusion, and care.

