

Jon Switalski

Executive Director | Rebuild SoCal Partnership

Jon Switalski is the Executive Director of Rebuild SoCal Partnership (RSCP). RSCP consists of 2,750 contractors throughout Southern California that represent more than 90,000 union workers in all twelve Southern California counties. Rebuild SoCal represents the collective and equal voice of labor and management. Rebuild works with elected officials and educates the public in Southern California on the continued need for essential infrastructure funding, including airports, bridges, ports, rail, roads, and water projects.

Before joining Rebuild SoCal Partnership, Switalski was the head of Spring Street Consulting, a strategic public affairs and communications firm. Since February 2019, Jon has held the title of Executive Director of Californians for Balanced Energy Solutions. His specialties include campaign tactics and communication, energy and environmental policy, open space revitalization, and equitable community engagement.

Jon also held the position of Director of External Affairs while working at River LA for two years (November 2016 – January 2019). Before this, Jon held the position of Vice President of Government Relations, Business Development, at Ebus Inc. from May 2015–August 2016.

Jon was elected as Michigan State Representative from January 2009 – December 2014. Before that, he was elected to the Macomb County Commission, and held this role for 4 years (January 2005 – December 2008).

Jon holds a Bachelor of Science from Grand Valley State University in Michigan. In spare time, he enjoys playing golf, hiking, and spending as much time as possible at the beach. Jon is also an avid traveler.
